Andrew Giannetti PT DPT MS CSCS

Andrew Giannetti PT, DPT, MS, CSCS received his Doctor of Physical Therapy Degree from New York Medical College in 2018. He also has a master’s degree in exercise physiology from Western Michigan University, and is a certified strength / conditioning specialist from the National Strength and Conditioning Association (NSCA). Andrew’s experience includes outpatient orthopedic, acute care, inpatient rehabilitation, and pediatric functional / developmental training within the special education population. He firmly believes each patient’s condition is unique, and tailors his treatment individualistically. Andrew also prides himself in creating positive relationships by involving each patient directly in their own treatment. He accomplishes this by working within the patient’s own daily routine to maximize the effect and benefit of Physical Therapy. This includes postural training, range of motion improvement, strength training, functional / individual needs, and the best “medicine” of all - laughter!

Patients of Michigan Pain Consultants & Synergy Physical Therapy Group can expect skilled and knowledgeable therapists that understand the differences between an acute pain and a chronic pain condition and how to manage those differences.

Our goal at Synergy Physical Therapy is to help relieve the patients’ pain and discomfort, decrease impairment and dysfunction, improve or maintain function, prevent or minimize disability, and educate our patients to be effective in self management.
